

Exhibitionist.

She buys millions of pounds worth of services every year for her company.

She never takes sales calls.

She's found a much more efficient way to draw up shortlists, see demonstrations and ask tough questions.

She's one of millions of business professionals who invest their valuable time at exhibitions every year.

Exhibitions.

Because business is face-to-face.